

Ingredion Mexico Receives Industry Ethics and Values Award

11/22/23

Ingredion Mexico was awarded the 2023 Ethics and Values Award by the Confederation of Industrial Chambers (CONCAMIN), which honors companies that demonstrate the best corporate social responsibility practices in Mexico. Companies are evaluated on the good practices they have implemented, including ethics, transparency, compliance, care for the environment and governance. This is the ninth consecutive year Ingredion has been recognized in the large companies category.

"At Ingredion Mexico, we are honored to receive this award, as we are an organization that lives its purpose of integrating the potential of people, nature and technology to make life better together," said Jaime López, president and CEO. "Every day, we live with ethics and values in all our actions as essential ingredients of the value proposition we provide to our stakeholders. This award reflects the integrity and dedication of all the people who collaborate in this great company, always with the responsibility to act with the highest ethical standards in all our operations," added López.

"The Ethics and Values in Industry Award is an example of how CONCAMIN has been promoting a Culture of Ethics and Values for 20 years among its confederated organizations and their associated companies, with the conviction that the practice of corporate social responsibility helps to increase the competitiveness of companies and contributes to the formation of a better society," shared José Abugaber Andonie, President of CONCAMIN, during the award ceremony.

"Ethics is in the DNA of our Company. We are committed to business and commercial integrity through sound programs and practices, raising standards in the short and medium term to achieve a better world. We are inspired to be recognized and receive this award, as we constantly seek to generate a real impact on our employees and the community," said Marcela Martínez Pichardo, director of public and regulatory affairs for Ingredion Mexico.

"We celebrate and congratulate all the winning companies of the Award," he added.