Dear Valued Industrial Customer:

I am writing to follow-up on our previous letter regarding the effect of the proposed acquisition of Corn Products International by Bunge Limited. I have received a few questions regarding the impact of the transaction on Corn Products North American Industrial business. Rest assured that we continue to run our business as usual and intend to do so following the consummation of the transaction.

As discussed in the June 23, 2008 press release, after the effective date of the transaction, Corn Products will continue to operate under its existing name as a wholly-owned subsidiary of Bunge. Our headquarters will remain in Westchester, Illinois. There are no plans to close industrial facilities as a result of the transaction. The industrial business has always been an important part of Corn Products International, and we are looking forward to continuing to service and grow our industrial business. Corn Products will honor our ongoing commitments to all our customers. We are looking forward to taking advantage of additional opportunities and resources, such as leveraging Bunge's worldwide logistics resources, in order to better serve our industrial customers.

Please let us know if you have additional questions about the proposed Bunge transaction. We at Corn Products are looking forward to continuing to provide our industrial customers with quality products and world-class service.

Sincerely,

Dennis Callanan
